AT A GLANCE

Tour Overview

Flying into the Serengeti saves a full day of driving. On this trip you leave a Zanzibar beach in the morning and are on a game drive by lunchtime.

You have two days in the Serengeti. Because you arrive by air, the camp can be chosen to match the migration: the south between December and March, the centre or west from April to June, and the north from July to October. Tell us your dates and we will suggest the right area.

From the Serengeti you travel by road across the Ngorongoro Conservation Area to Karatu, with game viewing on the way and views into the crater from the rim. The next morning you visit the Hadzabe and Datoga at Lake Eyasi, then fly back to Zanzibar for three nights by the sea.

Good for: travellers who want the most Serengeti time from a short trip and would rather fly than drive. This is a quick safari, so if you want a game drive on the crater floor ask us to add a night.
