AT A GLANCE

Experience Overview

Arusha National Park begins 45 minutes from town, which makes it the easiest safari day in northern Tanzania. It is small and has no lions, and that is part of why it works: this is one of the few parks where you can get out of the vehicle and onto the water.

The morning game drive climbs through forest to the rim of Ngurdoto Crater, where buffalo graze on the marshy floor below, and crosses the open glade known as Little Serengeti. Giraffe are everywhere, and this is the best place in the north to see black-and-white colobus monkeys in the canopy.

After a picnic lunch you paddle a two-person canoe on Small Momella Lake with a guide. From the water you may see hippos, buffalo and waterbuck on the shore, and a variety of waterbirds. Flamingos visit the neighbouring soda lakes in varying numbers. On a clear day Mount Meru rises behind you and Kilimanjaro is visible to the east.

Good for: a first or last day in Arusha, families, and anyone who wants to be active. Canoeing is subject to weather and park conditions.
